RESEARCH ARTICLE: SUMMARY
Book Groups
PART A.	SUMMARY
1. First, I	NDIVIDUALLY read the research article one time through without doing anything.
below.	with your book group, you are going to mark-up the research article by following the steps. (We did this for our research summaries in Writing Workshop #2 . Reference your writing tals for guidance if you need additional assistance.)
•	Highlight and label the THESIS. (Think: What is the main event?)
•	Draw a squiggly line under and label the REASON. (Think: Why did the thesis occur?)
•	Underline and label the SUPPORT. (Think: What evidence is there for the reason? A quote? A statistic? A series of events?)
•	Draw a box around and label the COUNTERCLAIM. (Think: What did the opposing side say about the main event?)
•	Put a star by the CONCLUSION. (Think: What is the outcome of the thesis? How did this event conclude? Remember: You may need to infer this!) listed a	with your book group, write a research summary that includes the critical components above. Similar to when we wrote research summaries in Writing Workshop #2 , this ary should only be between 5-7 sentences long.
