

Name: _____

Date: _____

SUBJECT, PREDICATE, & COMPLEMENT: IDENTIFYING SUBJECT

Grammar Review #2

Directions: In the sentences below, first bracket off all prepositional phrases. Then, underline the complete subject and circle the simple subject.

REMEMBER: THE SIMPLE SUBJECT CAN NEVER, EVER, EVER BE IN A PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE.

1. On his lunch break, Jake developed a bellyache after eating twelve beefsteaks, a cheesecake, a pancake, and two pitted dates.
2. During the holiday shopping seasons, Bucky, an alert security guard, nabbed a perpetrator shoplifting a refrigerator.
3. There are snakes and bears and even crazy squirrels waiting to attack in the woods.
4. After a strenuous audition, Perketta landed a job as a professional smiler, waver, and look-amazed in television infomercials.
5. At a press conference, the company president and company publicist announced a recall of thousands of defective thimbles.

Name: _____

Date: _____

SUBJECT, PREDICATE, & COMPLEMENT: IDENTIFYING SUBJECT

Grammar Review #2

Directions: In the sentences below, first bracket off all prepositional phrases. Then, underline the complete subject and circle the simple subject.

REMEMBER: THE SIMPLE SUBJECT CAN NEVER, EVER, EVER BE IN A PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE.

1. On his lunch break, Jake developed a bellyache after eating twelve beefsteaks, a cheesecake, a pancake, and two pitted dates.
2. During the holiday shopping seasons, Bucky, an alert security guard, nabbed a perpetrator shoplifting a refrigerator.
3. There are snakes and bears and even crazy squirrels waiting to attack in the woods.
4. After a strenuous audition, Perketta landed a job as a professional smiler, waver, and look-amazed in television infomercials.
5. At a press conference, the company president and company publicist announced a recall of thousands of defective thimbles.